Signatures filed with state election office

Utility ballot issues revived

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In a second attempt to place four issues on the November ballot, Ohioans for Utility Reform has filed another 92,000 signatures with the state election office.

"We are delivering to the secretary of state more than four times the number of supplemental signatures required," OUR Chairman Robert Loitz said at a news conference Tuesday. "The citizens of Ohio have clearly demanded an opportunity to vote on these three issues."

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown had set a Tuesday deadline for the reform group to gather 21,000 signatures needed to meet the 307,201 minimum.

Although Loitz says his organization has a cushion of more than 70,000 names, the petitions still face scrutiny from county election boards before the four-part package is certified for the November ballot. An earlier check invalidated 96,000 names from the group's first filing.

The most controversial proposal would clamp tight safety and insurance liability standards on nuclear power plants. OUR also asks a statewide vote on: A consumer office to represent the public in utility rate cases; guaranteed minimum amounts of gas and electricity for residential users; and relaxation of requirements for placing issues on election ballots.

Loitz said a pro-utility coalition had circulated a misleading flyer, insinuating that the nuclear amendment would force a shut down of two nuclear plants already under construction in Ohio. The Davis-Besse plant, being built by Toledo Edison and Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. near Port Clinton, is almost complete, while considerable work has been done on Cincinnati Gas and Electric's Zimmer plant in Moscow, Ohio.

"Both facilities are specifically exempted from the Issue 6 safeguards because they both have valid construction permits from the federal government," said Loitz, an Akron businessman.

The flyer states: "All nuclear power development in Ohio would be effectively shut down by the proposed nuclear amendment to the constitution." It was put out by Citizens for Safe, Lower Cost Electricity, an organization Loitz identified as "your friendly gas and electric company."

The "citizens" claim broad-based support from business, industry labor and utility companies.

The nuclear amendment, if approved, would affect seven nuclear power plants currently in preliminary stages of construction or still on the drawing boards.

Pro-utility forces have also filed a lawsuit with the Ohio Supreme Court, challenging the procedures used by OUR in collecting petitions and the ballot language of the issues.

Abortion foes interrupt Carter rally

By DAVE RILEY

Associated Press Writer

While President Ford campaigns from the security of the White House, Jimmy Carter is out pressing the flesh. It seems that meeting the public has more hazards.

Campaigning through the Northeast on Tuesday, Carter said he would have fired FBI director Clarence Kelley and speculated that cheating by Richard Nixon and other Washington big shots encourages crime.

But for a group of angry demonstrators in Pennsylvania the big issue was abortion and they were noisy about it.

Carter met the demonstrators as he arrived Tuesday night in Scranton, Pa. They lined the route Carter took from the airport to his hotel, waving anti-abortion signs and shouting at the candidate.

And they mingled with Carter supporters at the hotel as the candidate arrived, making a throng estimated by police at 1,000 persons, with one side shouting "We want Carter" and the other chanting "Life, life, life."

Meanwhile, President Ford remained in Washington, making some unusual appearances designed to make use of the White House as a backdrop for what his campaigners hope will show him to be working instead of campaigning.

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, said Ford was "practicing being president" and is "failing to take his campaign to the people."

Carter, faced with the crowd outside his hotel Tuesday night, first tried to greet supporters and shake hands. But in the crush of bodies and the din of the conflicting shouts, Secret Service agents circled the candidate and hustled him into the hotel.

Carter was not struck or injured and did not appear shaken by the incident. Inside the hotel, he smiled and waved to people in the lobby.

Demonstrators outside the hotel said they opposed Carter's stand on abortion. Carter opposes a constitutional amendment outlawing abortion, although he says he personally is against abortion.

He is running on a party platform that says it recognizes religious and ethical concerns over abortion, but opposes a constitutional amendment.

Earlier, Carter resurrected the memory of resigned President Nixon in arguing that wrongdoing by Republican big shots has led other Americans to conclude that breaking the law is okay.

And the former Georgia governor said if he were president he would have fired FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley, who received gifts from subordinates and $355 worth of government-supplied window decor.

But asked if he will fire Kelley if elected president, Carter replied, "I will cross that bridge if I come to it."

"When people throughout the country, particularly young people, see Richard Nixon cheating, lying, leaving the highest office in disgrace ... when you see the head of the FBI break a little law and stay there, it gives everybody the sense that crime must be okay."

He said people ask themselves, "If big shots in Washington can get away with it, why can't I?"

Carter has said he does not plan to make Ford's pardon of Nixon an issue and he did not mention it.

Meanwhile, Ford's stay-at-home campaign relied on a variety of events Tuesday aimed at showing him at work in the White House.

He held formal Rose Garden ceremonies Tuesday before television cameras to sign two bills that ordinarily would have been signed with little fanfare.

One bill provides funds for victims of the collapse of Idaho's Teton Dam. White House aides made sure Idaho Sen. Frank Church, who had sought the Democratic presidential nomination, was positioned behind Ford as the television cameras recorded the signing.

The other bill signed by Ford was a rerun of a measure Ford vetoed earlier this year. It adds $240 million to authorized funding for federal day-care services for children.

Later, Ford made an unusual appearance in the White House press center to read a statement demanding "a full accounting, without further delay, of all Americans missing in action in Vietnam."

The statement was a reaction to a day-old development in which Vietnam listed as dead a dozen American airmen who had been listed as missing in action. Ford's statement was delivered at an hour when it would be fresh for the evening television news broadcasts.

Mondale, hopping from state to state Tuesday, criticized Ford for failing to take his campaign to the people.

Meeting set Sept. 15

County school board eyes levy promotion

The Fayette County Board of Education has scheduled a public organizational meeting for the promotion of the 4.7-mill additional operating levy which will appear on the November general election ballot.

The meeting, which will be held at Miami Trace High School at 8 p.m. Sept. 15, is open to the general public with special written invitations being sent to leaders of various organizations in the community as well as to people who have helped in promoting past school levies.

Board member Phil Grover suggested the promotional meeting at Tuesday night's regular board session.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster said he hopes such a meeting will help explain the school district's need for the increased monies.

"The story must come from within the community," Foster said of the board's intentions of explaining the tax increase request to various civic leaders. He said that school officials are associated with the reported $600,000 property tax increase adding that the school district will not receive a significant increase in funds in coming years.

"Until it is proven that their (county residents') taxes haven't doubled, it will be hard to get the levy passed," Foster said.

Along with the various community leaders, who will receive written in-

UNSCRUPULOUS auto dealers and private citizens who "roll back" the odometer readings on used cars to boost their resale value will be taking a very big chance from now on, thanks to recent administrative action taken by the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Curtis Andrews, registrar of the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles, reported today that all new Ohio title certificates printed after August 31 of this year will include an official mileage declaration which a vehicle seller must sign in order to transfer ownership to a purchaser. Andrews said this consumer protection measure was proposed by his office in late July, and formally approved by the attorney general on August 26.

By adding a mileage statement to the affidavit portion of every new title, Andrews explained, the state will force a "rollback artist" either to admit that the mileage indicated on a car's odometer is inaccurate or sign his name to a false statement on a sworn legal document.

He said the re-designed title certificate will be introduced over the next several months, as each county exhausts its current inventory of old-style forms.

"Until now, local police and prosecutors had to prove that a false odometer reading was part of a deliberate fraud scheme. . . . With the new title document, they can go after people who have rolled back mileage readings for falsifying a legal document, and that carries its own $1,000 fine and a jail sentence of up to six months," Andrews said.

Any dealership found guilty of making false mileage statements on titles would be subject to suspension or revocation of its license by the Ohio Dealer and Salesman Licensing Board.

Another significant change to be incorporated in the new title document requires the true selling price of a vehicle must be stated in the affidavit portion of the title completed and signed by the seller. . . . This step was taken to prevent purchasers from understating the real price to reduce the amount of state sales tax they must pay.

WATERSHED AREA — The Rattlesnake Creek watershed project could include all of the area shown on the map above. It will most likely be approached as both a federally-eligible project under Public Law 566 and an Ohio ditch project. The portion which is now being studied for federal feasibility begins somewhere in the neighborhood of Ohio 729 north of Sabina to about a mile upstream from U.S. 62-S. The termination lines are flexible and will depend on the project feasibility north and south of these general guidelines.

No objections voiced

Public hearing held on watershed project

By GEORGE MALEK

A small but extremely supportive group attended a public hearing on the Rattlesnake Creek watershed project Tuesday night in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Many of the public officials directly involved in the project were absent, and for a project which encompasses more than 170,000 acres, the turnout was poor.

It was noted several times that the public hearing on environmental impact was required by law, and those present went through the motions of the meeting to satisfy the legal requirement. No one objected to the project or expresses any fear that the natural environment would suffer.

The few people who addressed the meeting strongly endorsed the project. If there was anything said which could be termed "negative" it was that the portion being considered for federal funding was too small and that the project was long overdue.

The watershed project extends from just north of the Madison County line to Ohio 753 in Highland County. It includes 279 square miles of land in Fayette, Clinton, and Greene counties. However, the area being considered for federal funding is considerably smaller.

Portions of the project are under study for a federal grant under Public Law 566. The U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, has authorized the Ohio Soil Conservation Service to complete a detailed study on portions of the watershed to determine whether or not the expenditure of federal funds can be justified by the benefits to area residents.

Preliminary studies indicated that the area south of Ohio 729 and north of U.S. 62 would be feasible. Detailed studies will determine exactly what areas might be eligible for a federal grant.

An important part of the federal guidelines for participation in such projects is submission of an environmental impact statement. This report is to include a detailed discussion of the effect of the watershed project on the natural beauty and wildlife in the project area. Tuesday's meeting was required to allow public agencies, organizations and individuals to voice their concerns over environmental factors.

James Waddell, of the Fayette County Soil Conservation Service, and Glen DeVoe, of the Greene County Soil

Conservation Service, stated simply that their agencies were 100 per cent in favor of the proposed project.

John Peterson, chairman of the Rattlesnake Creek watershed steering committee, said committee members had contacted great numbers of the landowners in the watershed. They were heavily in favor of the plan and a list of supporters will be submitted to the state SCS in the near future, Peterson said.

John Richards of Washington C.H. expressed the concern of many when he said the project under study for federal funding did not extend far enough to the south. He said improving the water flow to the north and then stopping was like "having eight lanes of traffic empty into one lane."

Mrs. Charles Fabb, who owns land in the watershed, noted that landowners have been battling high water in the area since the 1930s.

Fayette County Commissioner Ray Warner said it would be unfair to surrounding landowners to have the project study confined to a small area. He said the federal project should be studied from beginning to end as requested in the landowners petition filed in Fayette County in 1975.

Former county commissioner Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford contends that whatever federal monies are awarded may be applied to the cost of the entire project under Ohio ditch laws. In this manner, any money received from the federal government could be used to hold down the WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Humphrey-Hawkins jobs bill, a major plank in the Democratic party platform, now are pushing a watered-down version of the measure because the original proposal met key opposition.

Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the sponsor of the bill, is trying to get the House Education and Labor Committee to approve the revised measure today. The backers then face the problem of getting it on the floor and sent to the Senate and approved there before Congress adjourns for the year on Oct. 2.

The committee passed an earlier version in May. However, that bill was blocked by the House leadership from coming to the House floor after the measure attracted a lot of political lightning.

The Republican National Convention used the bill as a prime example of what the GOP considered the tendency of congressional Democrats to spend huge amounts of tax money and to expand government. And 60 of the 81 Democratic freshmen asked the House leadership not to bring up the costly bill because it might hurt their re-election chances.

Under the bill, the president, Congress and the Federal Reserve would take various steps aimed at stimulating private industry to produce new jobs. To further close the unemployment gap, there would be public service jobs to employ those unable to find work elsewhere.

The Ford administration claims the bill would cost $30 billion annually. Others estimate the cost from $8 billion to $16 billion. It also has been criticized by some supporters of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, and some liberal economists have said it might be inflationary.

Since the early summer, Hawkins, organized labor and civil rights organizations have regrouped to revise the bill. That revision is up for committee approval. An aide to Hawkins said the revisions have been endorsed by Carter campaign aides and are being promoted with vigor by the AFL-CIO and other groups.

These are the key changes:

—The goal of getting unemployment down to 3 per cent within four years would be for adults only. The original 3 per cent goal was to include persons between the age of 16 and 20 as well as adults. By comparison, the August unemployment rate was 7.9 per cent.

—The bill's mandate to plan ahead for balanced growth in the economy with full employment and minimal inflation would apply only to government planning. The original measure held the prospect of government planning for private business.

—An anti-inflationary section was inserted to set the goal of keeping the annual rate of consumer prices at the level they are at the time the bill is enacted into law.

—Providing government jobs to persons who can't find other work — the so-called "last-resort" jobs — would be delayed until two years after the bill takes effect. These would be mainly lower skilled jobs.

assessments to individual property owners, even those residing outside the federally approved portion of the watershed.

Robert Quilliam, Ohio Soil Conservation Service representative and moderator of the program, did not respond to this particular question. He said only that the two (federally funded portions and ditch petition portions) could be concurrently let for bids. Afterwards, he stated that he was not in a position to interpret law concerning assessments.

County commissioner J. Herbert Perrill addressed himself to the environmental questions when he stated that a Wayne County project now underway was carefully preserving the natural beauty of the creek area. He said fish shelters had been created and that trees were marked for preservation. He said he saw no reason why farmland could not be given proper drainage without destruction of natural settings in the Rattlesnake Creek watershed.

Art Waldorf, a representative of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, echoed the same sentiments. He said that while touring the project area, he saw a great many wildlife retreats, but that he also saw many acres of farmland being wasted because of improper drainage.

In addition to the comments of those who attended the meeting, written statements can be made a part of the public record on such hearings. Quilliam noted that several persons had submitted such statements and their views would be included in the environmental impact document.

SCS REPRESENTATIVE Marshall Edens reviewed the progress on the project to date. He said that the project was first presented to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources in 1970. It was sponsored by the boards of commissioners and SCS offices of five counties, Madison, Greene, Fayette, Clinton and Highland. The purpose of the project was to control flooding, erosion, sedimentation and to provide drainage for the Rattlesnake Creek watershed area. Federal funding was sought through Public Law 566.

A meeting was held in Washington C.H. in 1975 where it was announced that a preliminary study indicated that at least part of the project could show the favorable cost-benefit ratio necessary to receive federal funds.

In November of 1975, a formal request to allow a detailed study of the area was submitted. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service gave its approval, and in April, 1976, the Ohio Soil Conservation Service was authorized to begin a detailed study.

The SCS is currently in the process of taking field surveys and geological samples throughout the area. Water sampling will begin soon and continue for approximately a year.

A study will be made to determine if any historical or archeological sites will be effected by the proposed improvements. The environmental effects will be studied, including the information from the present meeting, Edens said.

Only after all the information has been collected and studied will alternatives for actual work be outlined. From the possible alternatives, the one which seems to best suit the landowners in the area will be chosen. This may include clearing, snagging, channel excavation, land treatment or a combination of all these.

The only thing that seems certain at this point, Edens said, is that no dams will be constructed to curtail flood waters.

It was noted several times after the meeting that the SCS cannot yet say what the boundaries of the study will be. Only as information concerning the area is accumulated and digested will the SCS be able to determine what the northern and southern boundaries of the federally funded portion of the project under study will be.

Soviet defector expected to depart for U.S. soon

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet air force pilot who landed his MIG25 fighter jet in northern Japan will leave for the United States in a day or two unless some unexpected development delays his departure, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said today.

The flier, Lt. Viktor I. Belenko, 29, told police after his surprise landing Monday that he wanted asylum in the United States. The U.S. Embassy declined to comment, but White House press secretary Ron Nessen told reporters in Washington: "If the pilot requests asylum in the United States, I'm sure he will be welcomed here."

Washington sources reported that U.S. experts were making a thorough examination of Belenko's plane, but the Japanese spokesman denied this. "As far as I know, no foreigners have touched the aircraft," he said.

The Soviet Embassy said it lodged "more than five protests" because the

Congressmen deny selves pay boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be no cost-of-living pay raise this election year for members of Congress.

The Senate voted 46 to 25 Tuesday to exclude Senators and House members from an automatic pay increase due Oct. 1 to all federal civil service employees.

The House had voted 325 to 75 last Wednesday to exclude not only Congress but also federal judges, Cabinet members and other top federal officials earning more than $37,800 a year.

The Senate, however, in adopting an amendment by Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, agreed to lift the salary freeze for all but senators and congressmen.

The ultimate pay raise fate of judges and top federal officials will await decision of a House-Senate conference on the billion-dollar legislative appropriation bill for fiscal 1977.

The exact amount of the federal pay raise, due automatically Oct. 1 unless blocked by Congress, is yet to be determined, but it has been estimated at 4.8 per cent. That would have raised the salary of members of Congress from $44,625 to $46,750 a year. The current salary reflects a 5 per cent automatic raise last year.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the Senate legislative appropriations subcommittee, defended the pay raise for all officials, including members of Congress.

He said that if the Taft amendment, allowing the raise for everyone but members of Congress, were adopted "there will be 14 White House staff aides running around earning more than senators."

The debate included discussion over whether Congress members, if they lacked "the guts" in an election year to vote themselves a pay raise, should deny it to other top government officials.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said Congress members should not "demean" themselves by rejecting a cost-of-living increase while approving it for federal judges and high-level executive officials.

Pastore, retiring at the end of the year, said it made little difference to him personally, but he argued a pay hike should go to all or none.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said the career civil servants and federal judges should not be denied cost-of-living increases just because "we don't have the guts to give it to ourselves."

Some cold drugs 'freed' by FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said today it will allow 10 strong medicines, available until now only on a doctor's orders, to be sold without prescription. The drugs are used to treat symptoms of coughs, cold, allergies and asthma.

The agency predicted the decision, coming just ahead of the traditional season for colds and hay fever, will save consumers money by reducing trips to the doctor's office and time lost from work. The average American suffers three colds each year, experts say.

A panel of outside scientists had recommended the action on the basis of its three-year study of the 35,000 to 50,000 cough and cold remedies sold without prescription.

The panel also said: "No non-prescription cough or cold drug should contain more than three active ingredients, and each of them must be from a different group such as cough suppressant, nasal decongestant and antihistamines.

—The FDA should require labels on non-prescription cough-and-cold remedies to be more specific, emphasize that the products give only temporary relief from symptoms rather than cure the ailments, carry warnings if aspirin is present, and advise patients to see a doctor if the problem persists.

—There is no scientific justification for the claim that vitamin C prevents or cures a common cold. The report recommended against approving it for that purpose until controlled clinical studies prove it is effective.

The FDA decided to allow the sale of the 10 strong drugs immediately. The panel's other recommendations were being reviewed by FDA officials, although Sherwin Gardner, acting FDA commissioner, indicated that he agreed that over-the-counter drugs should have more detailed labels.

The advisory panel had recommended removing 14 cough-and-cold drugs from the prescription list, but the FDA said it disagreed on three of the drugs and was deferring a decision on another.

The drugs that now can be marketed without prescription are products containing the antihistamines brompheniramine and chlorpheniramine, the bronchodilators methoxyphenamine and theophylline in three forms, and the nasal decongestants oxymetazoline, xylometazoline and pseudoephedrine in two forms.

Non-prescription cough-and-cold remedies rolled up sales totaling $735 million last year, the FDA said.

Curtain goes up on 24-mile 'fence'

BLOOMFIELD, Calif. (AP) — The curtain goes up today, literally, on the grandiose brainchild of artist Christo Javacheff — an 18-foot-high nylon fence stretching over 24 miles of rolling hills and farms to the Pacific Ocean.

If all goes well, he will tear it down again in two weeks.

At dawn today, 300 youthful workers begin stringing the white curtain panels like hundreds of billowing sails along cables attached to 2,050 steel posts previously anchored in the soil of 55 Northern California farms.

In a surprise move Tuesday, the helpers, who are paid $2.40 an hour, installed a section of the running curtain-fence on the one spot where Javacheff couldn't obtain permission:

Claim dead POWs alive when captured

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two missing American pilots who the North Vietnamese now say are dead were previously identified by American officials as alive after they were shot down during the Vietnam war.

North Vietnamese diplomats remained silent five years ago when given evidence suggesting that the two pilots were alive when captured during the war, says the Pentagon's top expert on prisoners of war.

But, said Dr. Roger Shields, "I don't want to accuse them of killing any of the POWs."

The two pilots mentioned by Shields were Air Force Maj. Elwyn R. Capling and Capt. Samuel E. Waters. Their names were included by Hanoi on a list of 12 men previously listed as missing but now declared dead.

The inclusion of the two men in Hanoi's new list supports the belief of U.S. officials back in 1971 that the North Vietnamese "had some information on people they never said anything about" during the Paris peace talks.

Shields spoke in an interview Tuesday after President Ford demanded "a full accounting without further delay" of all the missing.

"It is callous and cruel to exploit human suffering in the hope of diplomatic advantage," Ford said. "Normalization of relations cannot take place until Vietnam accounts for all our men missing in action."

Boston schools open

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's public schools opened quietly today for their third year of court-ordered integration after a night of rock throwing and the last 1,000 feet to the ocean 40 miles north of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Javacheff, 41, who once stretched a curtain across a Colorado canyon, spent four years and $2 million weaving his way through an array of public hearings and legal battles to see his masterpiece completed.

He asked only that the curtain — which some agree is art and other have called a fraud — be allowed to wave for two weeks in the ocean-misted winds. Then, he promised, he will happily dismantle it.

"The project is not the fence," explained Christo, a Bulgarian-born, New York-based artist who doesn't use his last name. "It is the complex relationship of many things — the fence, the hills, the sky, the people, the urban areas, the countryside."

Jeanne Claude, his business agent and wife, put it mysteriously: "Revealing through concealing. As old as Adam's fig leaf."

A local sculptor, Mary McChesney, said she doesn't like the fence being hung "in my own backyard. I think the project is boring. Christo is a lightweight scam guy, an art hustler. I think his motivations are to make himself famous and rich."

The farmers, who were paid $215 each for property rights of way and were guaranteed that they could keep the expensive steel poles and taut fabric for their own use, were among Christo's staunchest supporters.

But environmentalists fought Christo in the courts and finally compelled him to spend $39,000 on an environmental impact report. He also had to win approval of a dozen local and state agencies in 17 public hearings.

The California Coastal Commission, which has jurisdiction over construction within 1,000 feet of the sea, had scheduled a final appeal on Javacheff's application Sept. 22 — a day after the art work is scheduled to be dismantled.

Informed that the illegal portion had been erected, commission executive director Joseph Borovitz said, "We'll treat it the same as any violation of the Coastal Act and ask the attorney general to take appropriate action." That could mean punitive damages and jail for contempt if Christo defied a court order to remove the section.

vitations, the board plans to invite the principals of each county school along with at least one representative from the various parent-teacher organizations.

The board Tuesday night also adopted the high school student handbook which was submitted by Miami Trace High School Principal Curtis Fleisher for final approval.

Before approving the handbook, the board clarified the term "clean shaven" in the dress code.

Many students and teachers have inquired about the exact meaning of the term, and the board was in total agreement that neatly trimmed mustaches worn by students would not violate the code.

The board said that mustaches have been accepted as proper grooming by the community in recent years.

Assistant Superintendent Steve Yambor requested that the board approve the districts participation in an Adult Basic Education program this year.

The program is for county residents who have not attained a high school diploma. The program will be operated on federal funds with no local expenditures.

Mrs. Clara Domy will head the program this year with assistance from Fred Doyle, Mrs. Kelly Doyle, Mrs. Nancy Wightman, Mrs. Phyllis Mann, Mrs. Katherine Miller.

IN OTHER action, the board: —Authorized the use of five buses for the transportation of the band, cheerleaders, and football team to each of the five away football games this year;

—Approved a high school faculty handbook;

—Formally made salary adjustments of 6.75 per cent on pay for substitute teachers, drivers, janitors and cooks;

—Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Faye Prindle, a district school bus driver;

—Approved class advisors and extra-curricular assignments for the high school; and —Added three persons, Nancy Cooper, Cornelia Parrett and Cinda Stinson, to the substitute teacher list.

Stocks make new gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved ahead again today, setting up another possible challenge of the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The Dow average of 30 blue chips rose a fraction in the early going to just below 997. Gainers took a 7-4 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active, with the consolidated ticker tape reporting trades in NYSE-listed issues running four minutes late shortly after the opening.

Market activity heated up as the Dow appeared to be preparing for another run at 1,000—a point at which it has been turned back a dozen times since early in the year.

Today's early prices included American Cyanamid, up 1/4 at 27 1/2; General Motors, down 1/4 at 68 3/4; Champion Spark Plug, unchanged at 12 3/4; and NCR, up 1/4 at 36.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 7.48 to 996.59, following through on a 25.19-point advance last week.

PUBLIC participation is urged for an advisory council meeting of the Washington C.H. Area Community Education program which will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Washington C.H. Middle School cafeteria.

Hank Shaffer, Community Education program director, said the advisory council will receive reports on the recently completed summer recreation program and plans for the benefit Offides football game September 18. . . The council will also discuss special events, activities and courses to be offered during the fall and winter segment of the program. . .

Toxic disposal nonsense

The incessant and growing need to dispose of discarded toxic materials should be dealt with in a definitive way. That is, a concerted effort should be made by state and federal officials to work out a rational system of disposal keyed to maximum public safety.

The folly of the present rather haphazard methods is shown by moves to get rid of 800,000 gallons of surplus military defoliant contaminated with the deadly chemical TCDD. It was TCDD, released by a plant explosion, that sent many residents of Seveso, Italy, to the hospital and forced the town's evacuation.

The defoliant is now stored in Gulfport, Miss. The plan was to bury it in a landfill in West Covina, Cal. This nonsensical undertaking has, fortunately, been aborted. City officials and a disposal firm decided to drop the matter, in the face of public outcry, at about the same time as California's state health director denied permission for the landfill operation.

This episode underscores the need to establish better disposal standards in the public interest. This should be done with the least possible delay.

WASHINGTON CALLING By Marquis Childs

Savoring quiet in Plains

PLAINS, Ga. — He sits in the front room of his handsome one-story house and talks with his quick, soft-spoken manner, characteristically gesturing with his hands with their long tapering fingers.

For Jimmy Carter it is the eve of a new and more formidable ordeal and he will not know the quiet of Plains as he moves ceaselessly across the country in the presidential campaign until Nov. 2.

Having just returned from his encounter with the Roman Catholic bishops and aware of the criticism of his seeming ambiguity on the abortion issue, he nevertheless reflects the quiet confidence that marked the palmy days of the primaries.

"I welcome the debates," he says. "What could be better than a face-to-face confrontation on the issues of the day."

Yet at the same time you sense an awareness of the need to move into another higher and far more demanding gear. Face-to-face has been his strength and his people can recite the hundreds of thousands of hands he shook in his successful race for governor of Georgia.

But the candidate can't shake a hundred million hands no matter how many plant gates he stands outside in one part of the nation or another. He must emerge as a candidate strong in his beliefs, challenging the man in the White House at every turn.

I reminded him that he had said he would not use Watergate as an issue. Why not, when so many Americans were aware of the evils of that time?

"The people know what Nixon did. There is no need to repeat that. But there is a continuity of the Nixon policies. The same people are there."

"The dominant question is of a non-leader and that I intend to talk about."

The principal themes of his campaign will be those he talked about in his speech to the general board of the AFL-CIO — inflation and unemployment. The figures pour out, the rise in prices since the Johnson-Kennedy era, the growth of unemployment to the highest point since the '30s. He has a litany of 10 specific proposals for the control of inflation, which he will repeat over and over as the campaign progresses.

At the same time he is careful to approximate the centrist position. He reminds the interviewer that he has been opposed to the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill for a long time.

"I am for the concept of Humphrey-Hawkins as it shows the consequences of unemployment on the present scale. It is too expensive and I do not favor the kind of overall planning by the federal government that it would mean."

On crime and its steady increase not only in cities but in small towns and suburbs, he is frank to admit this is a hard question to answer. He believes a large part is due, particularly in ghetto areas, to large-scale unemployment.

"I would favor concentrating crime-aid from the federal government on areas where the crime rate is highest. There is a constant fear in the ghettos. It is the poor unemployed black who commits crimes on other poor blacks."

"But it is not alone the cities. Unemployment in this country is 12 and one-half per cent. You have to think of the effect on the family structure and particularly on a loose structure, as with black families here. A youth turns 18 and he is told by his family they can no longer keep him. He is turned out."

"There is no aid of any kind for him, no help from the government. So it is hardly surprising that he turns to crime of one kind or another. Approaching adulthood, he lacks self-esteem, he lacks respect for a mature legal society."

Again and again he turns to his own experience in the rolling green countryside where his peanut business has made him, if not a millionaire, then close to it. That and his experience as governor of Georgia when he visited every prison in the state.

"On the average I would think that 35 per cent of the men and women in prison were retarded. I never saw a rich man in prison. The process of justice is so slow and the fate of the parolee so uncertain. I think here that the upper stratum has a personal responsibility to help individuals in the lower stratum."

In this brief interval of transition he must convert from the citizen of Plains — population 683, looking, in its neat store front Main Street, like a Hollywood set — to a national figure.

It will not be easy thanks in part to television, which cast him in the melodrama TV likes as a folk hero, a David, with all the superstars of Rosalynn, his wife; Miss Lillian, his mother, Amy, his daughter. It is a difficult course and you sense as he talks on that he knows it.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
Just the right day to bring off something new in your occupational area. Move fast? Evening hours favor romance.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
A new approach to a financial matter advised. Look beyond the immediate situation. Potential is greater than you may imagine.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Your magnetism should be working overtime now so take the initiative in advancing both career and personal interests. What you ask will be given.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Lots of action indicated in areas which have been quiet for some time. Get into it while the time is ripe — and profit!

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Give careful thought to decisions you must make soon. Call on interested friends if you think they can help. There's more than one way to get ahead.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A good time to take the initiative in business matters, to express independence of thought and action. You are sometimes too hesitant for your own good.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
You could be wavering, indefinite. It will be that type of day — calling for strictness with self and others who require it. Design a pattern you can follow.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Once you are sure that your ideas have good potentialities, lose no time in trying to bring them to realization. Good Mars influences should help you.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
You may face some unexpected situations, some unforeseen changes. Accept all in your inherently gracious manner. They could turn out surprisingly well.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Everyone likes the accolades and few relish the critique, but the latter is often far more beneficial — when taken with the right attitude. Expect a "going-over" now: You will learn a lot.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Day may be less stimulating than you wish, but you can make it more so by your attitude, enthusiasm and willingness to cooperate with the best offered.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
This day calls for calmness and good judgment. Do not let unexpected situations ruffle you and do not let yourself be pushed into undesirable "corners."

YOU BORN TODAY have an extraordinarily keen mind; are noted for your trustworthiness, precision and meticulousness in handling details. You have a high potential for success and happiness but, along the road, can suffer setbacks through moodiness and feelings of inadequacy. You are a highly emotional individual, but you school yourself to contain all feelings within yourself, which can lead to severe fits of depression. Try to be less inhibited, to let yourself go, as the saying is, and you can not only rise above introversion, but put yourself in a more congenial light with business superiors and associates. You have an affinity for science and may be especially attracted to electronics or physics; may do important research work in either area. Other fields in which, properly trained, of course, you could make a shining success: teaching, journalism, the theater, literature, any occupation which involves travel.

Ohio Perspective

Seth Taft eyes governor's chair

CINCINNATI (AP) — Seth Taft may live in Cleveland but he has a famous Cincinnati political name. It is that combination which he hopes to parlay into a successful campaign that will make him governor of Ohio.

Taft is the grandson of President William Howard Taft, and the first cousin of Robert Taft Jr., the state's incumbent U.S. senator.

He admits it's early but said he is giving considerable thought to running for governor in 1978. For the past six years he has been a Cuyahoga County commissioner, a successful Republican in the greater Cleveland area, the traditional Democratic stronghold of the state.

It is the familiarity the voters of Cleveland have with him that is causing him to think perhaps he could be elected governor, a feat his father failed to pull off. Charles Taft, a Cincinnati councilman, ran unsuccessfully for governor in 1952.

The younger Taft, 53, concedes the glamor of the Taft name would be a distinct advantage if he decides to get into the race, especially in those areas of the state where he himself is not well known. He said a final decision on whether to make the race, however, is at least a year away.

At this point, Taft is letting GOP leaders around Ohio know that he is interested, attempting to persuade them not to pledge their support to someone else before he makes a final decision.

He has decided not to seek a third term as a Cuyahoga County commissioner. Having won twice in such a heavily Democratic area is something Taft is basing his precampaign strategy on.

"If a Republican can get elected twice in a row," Taft said of his two terms, "it might upset the standard assumption that the Democrats are going to carry Cuyahoga County by 100,000 votes."

Taft said he believes the state government has not done enough for the major metropolitan areas of Ohio, and in many ways does not recognize the metropolitan character of the state today.

He believes the state should encourage municipalities to adopt regional, rather than narrower, approaches to problems.

But he is quick to point out that he does not want to eliminate giant Indianapolis-type, city-county mergers a lot of smaller autonomous municipalities.

Dear Abby:
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Let her take care of former patient

DEAR ABBY: I was engaged to marry a registered nurse, but all of a sudden she changed her mind. Now, she wants to wait a while because she became interested in a man she had as a patient a few months back.

He's a cop who was shot during a holdup. A bullet hit his spine and he is paralyzed from the waist down, so I can't understand how he can do her any good as a husband.

She tried to give me back the diamond, but I told her I wanted her to continue to wear it to remind her of her promise to marry me. The last time I saw her, she wasn't wearing it, and she acted very cold.

I have a full-time job that pays good money, and I am in perfect health. Please let me know what you think this man can do for her, being paralyzed, confined to a wheelchair and unable to work. Thank you.

PUZZLED IN NEW YORK

DEAR ABBY: What this man can do for her concerns her and the man. In any case, I suggest you accept the engagement ring she wants to return because now that she is interested in another man, your engagement is off.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a secretary in a one-girl office with a great boss. The problem is with the salesmen. Since I'm the only girl, they make all sorts of passes at me. One old goat who's old enough to be my father asked me if I played around.

Abby, I love my job and make excellent money for a girl my age (18), and I'm not about to quit because of these jerks.

I need the money because my parents are dead, and I support myself. I try to be friendly, and sometimes I kid around with the men, but I've never given any of them the least little bit of encouragement.

I know they read your column. So please print this. They may see it and leave me alone.

DEPRESSED IN DEPEW

DEAR DEPRESSED: Apparently your "friendliness" and "kidding around" have been misunderstood. If a girl is "all business," a man rarely suggests any monkey business. And if he does, he can be set straight in a hurry.

DEAR ABBY: One might think that at age 60, I'd be used to people who call attention to the fact that I'm unusually tall. But it still bothers me.

Please remind your readers that if unusually tall people don't pass a mirror, they can forget about their height for a while until some heartless clod says, "I like to stand next to you because it makes me feel so small." Or worse, "Say, how tall ARE you anyway?" If the answer is, "I'm 6 feet 2," or "3, or 6," what's the difference?

We tall folks have enough problems trying to find clothes to fit us and comfortable furniture without remarks from "normal" people who mean well but spoil our day by reminding us that we're freaks.

TALL IN TILLAMOOK

DEAR TALL: Here's a short order for all you out there who know better but sometimes forget: If a person is unusually tall or short or thin-he knows it. And doesn't want to be reminded.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, September 8, the 252nd day of 1976. There are 114 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1935, Senator Huey Long of Louisiana was shot at Baton Rouge. He died two days later.

On this date —

In 1565, a Spanish expedition landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., and founded the first permanent European settlement in North America.

In 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam to the British.

In 1760, Wisconsin came under British control after being French territory.

In 1934, 134 persons lost their lives in a fire aboard the luxury liner Morro Castle off the New Jersey coast.

Ten years ago that Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel regime was illegal. But it said it was the only regime and must be obeyed.

Five years ago: The John F. Kennedy performing arts center, which cost $70 million, was officially opened in Washington, D.C.

One year ago: Police in Boston arrested more than 100 persons as federal marshals, backed by national guardsmen, protected students riding buses in a court-ordered integration plan.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Sid Caesar is 54. Songwriter Howard Dietz is 80.

Thought for today: Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses — writer Dorothy Parker, 1893-1967.

New real estate firm opens here

A new real estate agency has been opened in Washington C.H.

D.E. (Deb) Marsteller, 1116 Jamison Road, has opened a new real estate agency here after successfully completing the Ohio Real Estate Commission's broker's examination.

The agency is located in the Huntington Bank building at 125½ N. Fayette St.

Marsteller, owner and operator of Marsteller Shoe Store, 121 E. Court St., started in the real estate business in 1971 as manager of the E.J. Plott Agency in Washington C.H. He held the position of branch manager until November of 1974 when he joined Bob Lewis Realty here.

Marsteller served as executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce from 1968 until 1971.

William C. (Bill) Martin, 1606 Old Chillicothe Road, will be associated with the new firm as a salesman.

Martin, a teacher and former coach in the Washington C.H. School District for the past 12 years, joined the E.J. Plott Agency in 1972 and was elevated to the position of assistant branch manager in 1974.

He has completed the E.J. Plott training course in addition to real estate courses at Miami University and Ohio University and a number of sales and professional motivation seminars.

He holds a masters degree in education from Xavier University, Cincinnati. He has been active in the City Teachers Association, served as president of the Miami Trace athletic boosters club and is a past president of the Union Township PTO. He served as coordinator of the Little League baseball program here for a number of years.

DONATES PAINT

French Hardware, Inc., of Washington C.H., was one of eight area firms donating paint to improve the appearance of the Wilmington College agriculture building. The wooden building, which houses the agriculture department and the college's office of public relations, is being repainted by alumni volunteers each Saturday.

Traffic Court

Two traffic convictions netted a total of $250 in fines and the suspension of driving privileges for 60 days for a Washington C.H. man during traffic court Tuesday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Michael W. Turner, 22, of Rt. 3, Washington C.H., was fined $200 by Municipal Court Judge John P. Case for driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was also sentenced to three days in jail and had his driver's license suspended for 60 days for the conviction.

For driving an unsafe vehicle, Turner was fined $50.

VFW officials visit post here

Ohio Veterans of Foreign Wars commander Dean Hinkle visited the new O.E. Hardway VFW Post building on Water Street recently and was quite impressed with the facility.

Hinkle was accompanied by Sam Schaffner, immediate past state commander, and Carl Bair, District 11 commander.

Local VFW officers Ted Wilburn and William Ernst guided the tour of the new facility located at 335 N. Water Street.

Schaffner commented that it was a pleasure not to have to climb two flights of stairs as was necessary in the old Post 3762 facility on S. Fayette Street. Bair and Hinkle felt the building committee had done an excellent job laying out the new VFW club.

Hinkle explained to members his goal for the coming year, building VFW membership statewide to 101,000. He explained how each veteran can assist in the membership drive.

The state commander also discussed the new plan for life membership in the VFW which was adopted at the national convention this year.

Nursing homes fail to report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state wants to know more about the spending habits of nursing home operators, but 111 homes have not provided required cost reports, according to Welfare Director Kwegyir Aggrey.

"As of Sept. 2, 1976," Aggrey told the House Finance Committee Tuesday, "a total of 111 homes were delinquent in one or more of the required six cost reports..."

Forty-six of the homes have missed two or more reports, Aggrey said. A total of 190 reports are delinquent.

Under questioning, Asst. Welfare Director Raymond McKenna acknowledged that no action had been taken against the homes for their failure to comply. But he said notices of a possible cut-off in state funds were in the process of being mailed out.

Nursing homes that care for Medicaid patients could face a separate pro-rata reduction in their state allowance under the terms of legislation currently before the finance committee.

The Democratic-sponsored bill purports to raise $115 million for the Medicaid program through a series of supplemental appropriations and internal cost-cutting measures, such as nursing homes cuts. The bill would impose a ceiling on state reimbursement to Medicaid homes, while leaving the door open for pro-rata reductions on a contingency basis.

However, House Finance Chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker hinted that a number of major amendments would be written into the bill before it voted out of committee next Tuesday.

McKenna insisted that the savings proposed by the legislation were not substantial enough to head off a 12 percent cut in welfare and Medicaid benefits set for Oct. 1.

Without the reductions, the Rhodes Administration says the department faces a $127 million deficit on Nov. 15 in the Medicaid program.

Shoemaker postponed action Tuesday on another bill to provide funding for the state's new "Consumer Counsel" office which was created to provide expert representation for the public in utility rate cases.

Muhammad Ali faces divorce

CHICAGO (AP) — The wife of heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, Khalilah Ali, has filed for a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty and desertion.

"It is not my desire to be vindictive against my husband. At this point, I want to work further on my own career and to raise our children free of further pain," Mrs. Ali said in a statement.

In a certificate of parenthood filed in Berrien County, Mich., last month, Ali acknowledged he fathered a girl born Aug. 6 to Veronica Porche, a frequent Ali companion during the past two years.

Sohio denies oil for Japan

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio) has denied allegations by a California official who says the firm hopes to ship Alaska's Prudhoe Bay oil to Japan.

Tom Quinn, chairman of California's Air Resources Board and an environmental advisor to Gov. Edmund Brown, said Tuesday in Anchorage the firm is gambling Congress and President Ford will permit export of the oil. Sohio is a major owner of the North Slope fields.

Quinn said Sohio's plan to expand the port at Long Beach, Calif., and build a pipeline system to Midland, Tex., will never be approved by the state.

That plan would move the oil when production reached 1.2 million barrels per day. An oil surplus is predicted by some officials on the West Coast.

Sohio's Alaska representative Ken Showalter said the firm has no plans to sell the crude oil to Japan, and challenged other conclusions drawn by Quinn.

Quinn said the proposed Long Beach plant could not meet state and federal clean air standards, but "we think there needs to be more work done on that," Showalter said.

Wilson Webb Retired Teachers new president

Fifty members of the Fayette County Chapter of the Retired Teachers Association met at the Terrace Lounge Sept. 2 for the annual fall luncheon. Table decorations were lovely of red feathery zinnias interspersed with greenery, attractively done by the Misses Jeanette and Josephine Roush.

The invocation which was given by Miss Ruth Stecher, was followed with a moment of silence in memory of the late Martha Sollars.

Following the luncheon, the business meeting was conducted by Marjorie Evans, president, who also welcomed three new members. Mrs. Everad Broberg read the minutes and communications. Purle Hayes gave the treasurer's report.

Chairman of the nominating committee, Amelia Child, presented the following slate of officers for the coming year: President — Wilson Webb; vice president — Edna Watts; secretary — Theresa Craig; and treasurer — Doris Bitzer.

The new officers were unanimously approved by the members. Mr. Webb made a brief acceptance speech. A report of the legislative committee was given by the chairman of that group.

Miss Evans expressed her gratitude to the various committees for their fine support during the past year and thanked the Roush sisters for the floral arrangements which they have provided for the tables.

Miss Elsie Forman, who had been privileged to enjoy a world tour in 1975, shared with the teachers a travelogue "Around the World in 35 Days." Her talk was very informative as all "traveled" with her to Hawaii, Japan, Taiwan, Nepal, India, The Holy Land, Greece, Austria, Hungary and Germany.

At adjournment, the president used a very appropriate closing statement concluding with "Let us pray that God directs our hearts."

Donohoe family holds reunion

Mr. and Mrs. George Donohoe of Atlanta were hosts at a family reunion for the family of Thomas and Rebecca Howser Donohoe held at the Paul Leduc Recreation Center at the old Atlanta school house on Sunday, Sept. 5. A bountiful carry-in dinner was enjoyed at 1 p.m., and a business meeting followed.

The oldest attending was Mrs. Martha Hughes, who is 97 years old; and the youngest was Steven Fox. The family having the largest present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garrison, and the ones coming the greatest distance were Mr. and Mrs. Herald Barker and son.

It was decided to hold another reunion next year on the first Sunday in September at the same place. The afternoon was spent visiting, and in games of basketball, kiddy games, and the playground equipment was used by the children. Many pictures were taken of various groups and pictures taken in former years were viewed.

Those attending the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donohoe and Vicky, Mr. and Mrs. Veryl Keaton and Bethany, Mr. and Mrs. Agnes Puffenbarger from New Holland; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schleich of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donohoe and Kathryn of Waverly; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foraker and Charles, Mrs. Florence Jewel, and Mrs. Edyth Poole, all of Chillicothe;

Mr. and Mrs. Herald Barker and Herald William of Cable; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Slemmons, Wynter, Michelle and son Aaron of North Lewisburg; Mrs. Janice Mouser and Robin of Mount Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garrison and sons, Keith and Doug, and daughters Pam, Cherri and Patty and Miss Betty Lee of Clarks Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Donohoe, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mouser and Tara and Brande of Washington C.H.;

Also Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Keaton, Kristy and Shelly of Hebron; Mrs. Martha Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fox, Mr. and Mrs. George List and Angie, David Grizzell, Mrs. Roger Fox, Susan and Cheryl, and sons, Kevin and Steven, all of Atlanta.

Two of the family members absent were Harry Donohoe, who is a patient in Margaret Clark Oakfield Convalescent Center, and Mrs. Maxine Donohoe, who is a patient in Grant Hospital, Columbus. Both would appreciate receiving cards from friends and relatives.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Doris Greene of Tornoto, Canada, is visiting with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fortier of 702 Washington Ave.

In London, England, in 1813 when Lord Byron learned his poems were in Ohio's Coonskin library in Athens County — five shelves of books purchased with coonskins — he noted in his diary: "These are the first tidings that have sounded like fame to my ears — to be read on the banks of the Ohio."

Marshall-Fetters marriage vows exchanged at Rickenbacker AFB

Rickenbacker AFB chapel was the Aug. 20 setting for the 8:15 p.m. Nuptial Mass uniting Miss Marie Theresa Marshall, daughter of Major (USAF Ret.) and Mrs. Joseph F. Marshall of Grove City and Jeffrey Evan Fetters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Fetters of Washington C.H. The Rev. Father Joseph Fete of St. Joseph's Cathedral officiated.

Miss Jean Ann Davis of Washington C.H. and Rodger Whaley added to the ceremony by reading selections chosen by the bride and groom.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza with a highrise bodice of English net appliqued with Alenoon lace, wedding band neckline and long Bishop sleeves. Appliques of lace enhanced the A-line skirt and the softly gathered back flowed into a chapel-length train. Her chapel-length mantilla of silk illusion, bordered with Alenoon lace, fell from a lace bonnet headpiece embroidered with seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis.

Ensign (USN-NC) Beth Tebbetts of Portsmouth, N.H., was the bride's honor attendant. Bridesmaids were the Misses Jill and Julie Fetters of Washington C.H., sisters of the groom, Miss Mary Catherine Spillane of Marshfield, Mass., cousin of the bride, and Miss Peggy Jones of Columbus. All wore floor-length gowns of coral voile designed with an empire bodice trimmed with Venice lace, ruffle cap sleeves and high neckline with back bow and streamers. They carried arm bouquets of Sonja roses.

Don Surface of Washington C.H., served as best man. Sharing usher duties were Rod Nicholas of Cincinnati, Robert Rea of Washington C.H., Joseph Marshall and John Marshall, brothers of the bride, from Grove City. The groomsmen all wore white tuxedos with coral shirts, matching the girls dresses.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held at the Officer's Club at Rickenbacker AFB. Miss Ann Miller of Findlay, presided at the guest book at the reception, as well as at the chapel.

After the wedding trip to Canada, the couple both graduates of Ohio State University, will reside in Washington C.H.

Sabina Methodist campgrounds is setting for recent marriage

Sharon S. Haggard of Sabina and Leslie A. Oesterle of 301 Clearview, exchanged marriage vows in the outdoor chapel of the Sabina Methodist Campground. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Caplinger of Good Hope, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Grace Oesterle of 301 Clearview, and the late Kenneth Oesterle Sr.

The Rev. Albert Briggs performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar enhanced with vases of gladioli, asters and carnations. Wedding music by Patricia Bick and Rodger West preceded the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her sons, Chris and Kirby Haggard, the bride wore a lavender crepe gown fashioned by her, with round scoop neckline, long full sleeves, accented with lace at the cuffs, waist and down the front of the long princess styled gown. She carried a bouquet of daisies, pompoms with lavender carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Dawne Warner of Washington C.H. was the matron of honor. She wore a deep violet gown of crepe identical to that of the bride's. Lezli and Mitzi Oesterle, daughters of the groom, were the junior bridesmaids. They wore purple and white gingham dresses with long sleeves and bodice under white ruffled floor length jumpers. Mrs. Warner carried an arrangement of daisies and purple asters and the bridesmaids carried nosegays of daisies.

Harry Powell of Wilmington served as best man, and Charles Wilson and Jeff Purtee of Wilmington seated the wedding guests.

The bride's mother wore a street-length floral print dress in red, white and blue with which she combined white accessories. The groom's mother chose a floral print street-length dress in soft pastels with which she also combined white accessories.

Hostesses for the reception, which followed at the campgrounds were Miss Bonnie Hahn of Jeffersonville, Mrs. Steve Morris, Mrs. John Skinner and Mrs. Cindi Merritt, all of Washington C.H.

The couple is residing in Sabina, following a trip to Nashville and through the Smokey Mountains.

Mr. Oesterle is employed by Cincinnati Milacron in Wilmington, and his bride at Kroger's in Washington C.H.

Miss Slaven feted at party

Miss Lenora Slaven, bride-elect of Kevin Smith, was guest of honor at a bridal shower given by her aunt, Mrs. Richard Howard. The home was decorated for the occasion. A large cake centered the table, from which punch was served along with mints and nuts.

Game winners were Miss Laura Malotte, Mrs. Bill Aker, Mrs. Pearl Williams and Mr. Wesley Miller.

Invited guests were Mrs. Fred Slaven and Mrs. Jack Smith, mothers of the couple, Mrs. Harold Driscoll, Brandye Driscoll, Mrs. Essie Slaven, Mrs. Ron Benson, Mrs. Harold Driscoll Sr., Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Helen Gevidon, Mrs. William Aker, Miss Debbie Aker, Mrs. Greg Aker, Mrs. Betty Malotte, Miss Sid Malotte, Miss Laura Malotte, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. S.T. May, Mrs. Randall Miller Sr. and Mrs. Randy Miller.

The Daughters of 1812, Major Samuel Myers Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will open their 1976-77 year with a "guest day" luncheon at 1 p.m. Sept. 13, in the Staunton Methodist Fellowship Hall. Ladies of the church will serve the luncheon and reservations should be made with Mrs. Robert Coffman by Friday, Sept. 10.

An interesting program has been arranged in keeping with the Bicentennial theme. The "Dorothy Quincy Story" will be enacted by Miss Cindy Grover, a versatile young lady who has the ability to portray several characters.

It is quite fitting that the patriotic organization, the Daughters of 1812, should open the year with a meeting that signifies the week of the celebration for the signing of the Constitution, which observes its 189th birthday Sept. 17.

Daughters of 1812 represents direct descendants of those patriots who served in the War of 1812. Many of these soldiers are buried in Fayette County.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Heber Deer, Mrs. Raymond Riegel, Mrs. Robert Coffman, Mrs. Walter Parrett, Dr. Bernice O'Brian, Mrs. Loren Hynes and Mrs. David Sheidler.

Rotarians explore underwater beauty

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club explored the beauty of the undersea world at their regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club.

John O'Rourke, a master scuba diving instructor at Wilmington College, presented color slides and commentary on a series of scuba diving expeditions to the Caribbean Sea.

The presentation opened with an explanation by O'Rourke of pre-dive testing and the "buddy system" which is employed to pair experienced divers with inexperienced ones.

The bulk of O'Rourke's pictures were taken underwater with strobe lights. He said the visibility distance was only 100 to 150 feet.

The Wilmington College instructor explained that underwater photography has become popular recently because of the "fantastic panorama of color" it provides.

Most of the dives were at depths of 30 to 40 feet and each diver carried an air supply to last from 45 minutes to an hour. O'Rourke explained that the shorter distances are safer and more favorable.

Some of the dives by O'Rourke and his students were 100 feet, but they were "just for the experience."

Marine life of all different sizes, shapes and colors were included in O'Rourke's presentation.

O'Rourke also mentioned the mysterious Bermuda Triangle which has been the subject of numerous books, television specials and movies in recent years.

An investigation conducted by O'Rourke disclosed that the area was not critical and there is a reasonable explanation for the loss of ships and airplanes in the area.

He said the situation is caused by the great depth of the ocean in that particular area, the dramatic change in currents and water spouts which he described as "tornadoes on the water."

The meeting was conducted by club president Dr. George Pommert and David Morrow arranged the program.

Paul Boggess was a guest with William Black and visiting Rotarians were Darrell French of Wilmington, and Lynn Rainsberger and Ottie Hockman, both of Mount Sterling.

Tire firms see demand on increase

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Rubber workers, most of whom have returned from the industry's longest strike, can look forward to coming back to an industry which expects to be almost as busy as it has been in 30 years because of an expected large increase in tire sales this year.

That was the prediction of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., the industry's largest tiremaker, which said that industrywide sales this year will total about 191 million, about 21.5 million more than last year.

A company official said that in the past 30 years, only in 1968 did the number of tires sold rise as much.

All four of the industry's major firms were struck by about 60,000 United Rubber Workers on April 21. Goodyear and Firestone workers already have returned to their jobs.

Uniroyal workers ratified their settlement Tuesday night by an overwhelming majority, union officials said. Uniroyal plants are expected to begin operations today.

Employees of Goodrich, which arrived at a tentative settlement on Labor Day, take a vote today and union spokesmen said they expect this pact to be ratified as well.

Consumers can expect to pay from 12 per cent to 16 per cent more for tires because of increased costs and the labor contract, industry spokesmen have said.

What's new at library?

Book nook

By ERIC HALVERSON
Library Director

Perhaps the finest federal, state or local program in operation today is the Talking Book Program.

For almost 40 years now, the Library of Congress working with state and local libraries has provided this free service to men, women and children faced with the loss of a vital information source and the pleasure of reading because their eyes were going bad or they couldn't hold a regular book.

But what is Talking Book and how does it work? Talking Book in Ohio is a free service administered through the Talking Book Division in Columbus, the Public Library of Cincinnati and the Carnegie Public Library in Washington C.H. The service consists of providing free of any charge a machine similar to a standard phonograph and a machine identical to a portable cassette player to any person who for any reason cannot comfortably use regular printed material. Once the machines are supplied an individual can then order from any of the more than four million titles that are available in either of the two recording formats, record or cassette tape.

The records and tapes are made by professional readers with excellent speaking voices. The readers will take an old favorite like "Tom Sawyer" or a new favorite like "Jaws" and read the books aloud into recording equipment where it is transcribed onto record or cassette tape. When a Talking Book patron requests "Tom Sawyer" or "Jaws" or one of the hundreds of other titles available, a recording or cassette tape of the book is sent directly to the person's home via the mail at no charge to the patron. When the book arrives the patron plays the record or tape on the machine he or she has received, and hears the book exactly as if he or she were reading it themselves. Books can be read (listened to) in a single setting or they can be read over a period of time at the patron's leisure.

Auto crash injures Hays

BARNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Wayne L. Hays, who ended a 28-year career in Congress because of the Washington sexpayroll scandal, was in satisfactory condition in Barnesville Hospital today with minor injuries received in a traffic accident.

Hays was hurt Tuesday in an accident in nearby Wheeling, W.Va. Dr. Richard Phillips said the 65-year-old former congressman suffered rib bruises and would be released in a day or two.

Meanwhile, authorities in Wheeling indicated that Hays probably would not be cited in connection with the accident, although Hays admitted he was at fault.

Deputy Bob Bell of the Ohio County sheriff's office said the accident still was being investigated but noted that citations normally are not issued in such incidents when there are no serious injuries.

"...In West Virginia, it's an extra fine and a court appearance and is not doing anybody any good," Bell said.

The deputy said the investigating officer will decide whether a charge is to be filed against Hays. He said it was possible that Hays could be charged with driving left of center, which upon conviction carries a fine of between $25 and $500.

In 1975 Congress passed a law providing that the net proceeds of land sale in Ohio and the rest of the Northwest Territory should go into the Sinking Fund of the United States for the extinction of the public debt. —AP

Jobless data hurting Ford

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Damage to the Ford campaign by the three-month rise in the official unemployment rate might have been muted if the President had accepted the recommendation of at least one government official.

The recommendation was that he appoint a blue ribbon committee to study the employment figures, which increasingly are criticized as inaccurate and badly in need of revamping.

Had he done so, the President would have been in a position to cast suspicion on the significance of the adjusted jobless statistics, which rose in June, July and August, and which could rise again in September.

To make such a suggestion now, just two months before the elections, and at a time when both the House and Senate are considering bills that could lead to such a committee, quite likely would be considered political expedience.

Various commentators say the jobless rate will play a pivotal role in the November elections, and conceivably could cost Ford the presidency.

The President could have appointed the committee from among prominent private and government economists and statisticians, just as did President John F. Kennedy when he named a review committee in 1961.

Julius Shiskin, commissioner of labor statistics, said he is among those who advocated such a move. Prof. Robert A. Gordon, who headed the 1961 committee that approved some of the procedures used today, said he also favored a review.

Shiskin said he made his recommendation when he first took office more than three years ago, and that he believed John Dunlop, labor secretary, passed it on to the White House for action. He said he then continued to press for the committee.

Among the criticisms made of the statistics is that the seasonal adjustment, based on a formula designed to offset temporary factors so that the underlying trend can be detected, is somewhat arbitrary and often inaccurate.

Last year, for example, the highest monthly jobless rate was thought throughout the year to be 9.2 per cent in May, but in January of this year it was revised downward by three-tenths of 1 per cent to 8.9 per cent.

Critics note that a change in the jobless rate by precisely the same amount in July of this year, from 7.5 per cent to 7.8 per cent, is believed to have seriously damaged Ford's campaign. Yet that change too is subject to revision, after the elections.

Albert Sindlinger, president of Sindlinger & Co., Media, Pa., an outspoken critic of seasonal adjusting, maintains the public interest would be better served simply by supplying the raw figures and comparable figures for the prior several years.

Gordon, immediate past-president of the American Economic Association, believes a review should be considered because, he stated, hundreds of millions of dollars of federal revenues are distributed on the basis of faulty local employment statistics.

Shuttle diplomacy set by Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger appears ready to embark on a round of African shuttle diplomacy that he considers to have no better than a 50 per cent chance of heading off a race war in southern Africa.

Kissinger reports to President Ford today on his weekend talks in Switzerland with South African Prime Minister John Vorster and is expected to discuss plans for a trip to Africa.

Kissinger said Tuesday that Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere has invited him to come to Africa as soon as possible. Kissinger said he would hold off a final decision on going until he receives a report from his top aide on African affairs, William E. Schauffele Jr.

A spokesman for Nyerere insisted that Kissinger had invited himself. "He asked to come and we said all right, come along," the spokesman said.

Schauffele, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, went to Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, on Tuesday to be briefed on the outcome of a summit meeting by black African leaders. If, as expected, he relays a positive report, Kissinger probably will leave Washington for Africa by next Monday. Reporters traveling with Kissinger were told by a senior American official that the secretary considered his chances for success in Africa at no more than 50 per cent.

In Dar es Salaam, conference sources said little attention was given to U.S. diplomatic initiatives aimed at achieving black majority rule in Rhodesia and South-West Africa, also known as Namibia.

In Hamburg, Kissinger told West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt that progress had been made with Vorster in formulating an approach to the problem areas of Rhodesia and Namibia.

IRS agents grab cash

CLEVELAND (AP) — Internal Revenue Service agents took $10,000 in cash from the till Tuesday at the Sheraton-Cleveland Hotel and Holiday Inn-Lakeside.

The seizure was a move by the IRS to collect part of the $163,749 which the agency says the hotel owners owe the federal government.

Ten IRS agents took the cash from various cash registers in the hotels and signed receipts while customers and other onlookers stood agog.

It "looks more like a holdup than a federal collection," one hotel customer observed.

Both hotels are owned by a group headed by Thomas R. Lloyd of Cambridge, Ohio. An IRS spokesman said the agency had notified the owner in April that the IRS was owed back payments on social security and withholding taxes.

Lloyd and other investors bought the Sheraton-Cleveland last year for $4 million from the Sheraton-Cleveland Corp. Despite plans for renovation, the city's largest hotel has suffered low occupancy recently.

Lloyd said he had been negotiating with the IRS about a repayment plan, but he added, "I guess they got angry." He said the agents confiscated $10,000 in cash and $16,000 in checks.

Both hotels will remain open despite the seizure, Lloyd said.

Issue frost warning in Rockies

By The Associated Press

While showers and thundershowers blanketed some warmer portions of the United States, the National Weather Service issued a warning this morning for frost in the Rockies.

The warning was issued for Wyoming, southeast Idaho and Montana east of the Continental Divide. By midnight, temperatures were generally in the 40s but a few had already slipped into the 30s and were dropping farther.

Thunderstorms diminished in the Southwest and a flash-flood watch issued for parts of southern California's mountains and southern deserts was cancelled.

Showers and storms continued into the early-morning hours from west Texas and east Colorado across the eastern portions of the Dakotas and northern Minnesota.

Thunderstorms extended east of the lower Mississippi Valley from Mississippi through south Georgia and Florida.

Attempted suicide case investigated

A Fayette County woman was treated and released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital Tuesday following a reported suicide attempt.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that a 47-year-old Fayette County woman took two sleeping pills and two nerve pills at her home around 6 p.m. Tuesday. The woman had apparently been despondent over financial difficulties and family problems, sheriff's deputies said.

Washington C.H. police officers reported that the Pic N' Pay Shoe Store in Washington Square Shopping Center sustained an estimated $300 in damages when a brick was thrown through a large plate glass window. Store officials said the incident occurred sometime since last Saturday.

Tony Tyree, 18, of 831 John St., was arrested by police officers on a charge of assault following an alleged incident near the Pizza Hut restaurant, S. Elm Street, at 9:50 p.m. Tuesday.

Joe R. Lux, 416 E. Paint St., told police officers that after exchanging words with Tyree, he was struck by Tyree. Lux was treated and released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

A tape player and tapes, all valued at $75 belong to Steve E. Chamberlain, 214 Cherry St., were reportedly stolen from his car sometime during Tuesday night, as it was parked in front of his residence.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that Anthony Valentine, 24, of Columbus, was treated and released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital after he became sick while driving with companions along I-71, just inside the Madison County line. The incident occurred at 3:57 a.m. Wednesday.

Local men show reserve champ

BLOOMINGBURG — A Bloomingburg area family enjoyed a very successful sheep show at the Ohio State Fair last Thursday.

John and Robert Frost, 6412 West Road, showed the reserve champion ewe in the Suffolk sheep show and placed in each of the lamb competitions they entered.

Their 259-pound ewe was bettered only by the entry from the Heggemeier Sheep Farms, Kirkland, Ill. The ewe is scheduled for shows in Harrisburg, Pa., and Louisville, Ky., later this year.

In addition to the reserve champion, the Frosts took second and third place in the fall ewe lambs, and second in the fall ewe lambs pen of three; eighth in the spring ewe lamb class, and second and third in the spring ram lambs pen of three.

Soviets want defector barred

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — The Soviet government has officially requested that chess grandmaster Viktor Korchnoi, who has defected from Russia, be barred from the next world championship series, the International Chess Federation says.

However, federation president Max Euwe said Tuesday that nothing can prevent Korchnoi from taking part in championship matches. Korchnoi is a candidate in his own right under federation rules, he said.

Korchnoi is in The Netherlands on a six-month permit while he awaits a decision on his application for political asylum. He did not return to Russia in July after competing in a tournament in Amsterdam.

Astros stun Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — It is called getting a dose of your own medicine and it had a foul taste for the Cincinnati Reds.

"It's awful," said Pedro Borbon, the victim of Houston's eight-run seventh inning that powered the Astros to a 10-5 victory Tuesday night.

"I've never seen an inning like that," lamented 14-year veteran Pete Rose.

The Reds had battered Houston the night before for a season-high, eight-run inning before to defeat the Astros for the 10th time in 15 meetings this season.

Trailing 5-2, the Astros loaded the bases on Reds' starter Fred Norman, who owned the second-best earned run average (2.43) going into the game.

Borbon came on to face Enos Cabell, who sent a slow roller down the third base line toward Rose.

Rose waited — and waited. But the ball stayed fair and the Astros had an uncontested run.

"I think it got foul," said Borbon, replaying the nightmarish inning.

Cesar Cedeño followed with a lazy bloop to center. "It went in the air. I think it will be caught," sighed Borbon. The ball barely dropped in safely and the Astros had two runs.

Borbon's problems had just begun.

Cliff Johnson ripped a baselined double for two more runs to put Houston ahead 6-5. After issuing an intentional walk to Jose Cruz, pinch hitter Ken Boswell delivered the death blow, a bases-loaded triple.

"Every time I've hit against Borbon I've come away empty," said Boswell. "His first pitch was inside and I was expecting the second one away. But it came inside again." He scored on Roger Metzger's second hit of the inning, a double.

Rookie Joe Sambito, 3-1, was the recipient of the eruption. He went six innings, allowing five runs on seven hits, including the 15th home runs of the season by Johnny Bench and Tony Perez.

Borbon, 4-3, took the loss, but Norman took the blame.

"It was my fault," said the 5-foot-8 lefthander. "I started it off." Eight straight balls put the first two Astros on base and left Norman at a loss trying to explain the control problem.

"I wish I had the answer. I guess the best I can do is say I was trying to be too careful," he said.

Joe Morgan extended his longest hitting streak of the season to 18 games with a fifth inning RBI-single. But he was removed from the game later with a slight ankle sprain suffered in the first inning.

The accident occurred at first base as he ran out a grounder. His foot came down on Sambito's foot. Morgan said he expects to be back in the lineup tonight when the series continues at Houston.

Jack Billingham, 11-9, is scheduled to face rookie Bo McLaughlin, 3-2.

Don Stanhouse was standing on the mound in Montreal but his mind was in a warmer climate.

The Montreal Expos had a 4-0 lead and Stanhouse was breezing along with a three-hitter against St. Louis Tuesday night. But the Cardinals exploded in the sixth inning, sending nine men to the plate and Stanhouse to the showers.

"I don't know where my mind was," Stanhouse said. "I guess it was somewhere down in Alabama."

And that's stranger still, since Stanhouse still lives in his hometown of DuQuoin, Ill.

"I've been in baseball all my life and I've seen it happen just like that many times before," said Montreal Manager Charlie Fox, who watched St. Louis come away with a 7-4 victory. "A pitcher will lose his rhythm or command of his best pitches."

One pitcher who didn't have that problem was Jon Matlack, who hurled his sixth shutout of the year as the New York Mets crushed the Chicago Cubs 11-0.

In other National League games Tuesday, Houston trampled Cincinnati 10-5, San Diego stopped Los Angeles 4-2 and San Francisco defeated Atlanta 6-3.

Keith Hernandez started St. Louis' four-run rally in the sixth when he singled with two out. Hernandez' third straight single, which came in the seventh, drove in the winning run as Stanhouse didn't figure in the decision. The loss went to reliever Chuck Taylor, 2-3.

Mike Wallace, the second of three St. Louis pitchers, got credit for his third victory in five decisions.

Mets 11, Cubs 0

Journeyman Leo Foster drove in five runs with a pair of singles and a homer to provide the firepower behind Matlack's shutout against Chicago.

Matlack, 14-8, went the distance for the 14th time this season. Mike Phillips also homered for New York. All four of his roundtrippers have come at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

Padres 2, Dodgers 2

Johnny Grubb and Jerry Turner drove in two runs each and Dave Freisleben and Butch Metzger combined to pitch a six-hitter to lead San Diego to victory. Freisleben, 9-12, struck out eight and walked two while Burt Hooton, 9-13, took the loss.

Giants 6, Braves 3

Right-hander Jim Barr, 12-11, needed ninth-inning help from Tommie Toms as San Francisco downed Atlanta. Gary Matthews and Marty Perez knocked in a pair of runs each to power the Giants. Toms came on to retire the final two batters.

The Giants chased loser Phil Niekro, 14-11, with four runs in the fourth. The big blow was Matthews' two-run double.

Tony Capuana, Kevin Bonecutter, Bill Davis, Gary Fisher, Scott Douglas and coach Rick Crooks. The Blue Lions open the season tonight against Circleville and are slated to meet Unioto on Thursday.

Winning A's just 5 games out

Oakland closes gap on Royals

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Pennant pressure is suffocating and the Oakland A's say that's exactly what's choking the Kansas City Royals.

"The pressure has to be getting to Kansas City," says Oakland's Gene Tenace. "They haven't been there before. Nothing is easy this time of year. You can't think about it, you just have to go out and play."

Tenace's famous "Mustache Gang" has been there before, of course, having won five Western pennants and three World Series in recent history. And now, the A's are making a serious bid in the homestretch to overhaul the faltering Royals.

They cut another game off Kansas City's lead with a 4-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night and now stand merely five games behind the leaders. That's a good deal less formidable than, say, 12 games — which was Kansas City's lead as recently as Aug. 6.

"Kansas City still has to beat us to win it," points out Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner, stressing that the A's and Royals still have to meet six more times this year.

In Kansas City, Manager Whitey Herzog alluded to the pinch of a tough pennant race in explaining the Royals' eighth loss in the last nine games.

"We're playing like we're scared to win — and don't know how," he said after a 2-1 loss to the California Angels.

In other American League action, the New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox 4-2; the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-3; the Milwaukee Brewers routed the Cleveland Indians 17-4 and the Minnesota Twins nipped the Texas Rangers 1-0.

Mike Torrez pitched a four-hitter, retiring 16 straight batters at one point, and Tenace hit two home runs to give the A's their victory over Chicago.

Righthander Don Kirkwood held struggling Kansas City to three hits and ex-Royal Tony Solaita drove in both runs as California beat the Royals. Two singles by George Brett and one by Tom Poquette were the only safeties against Kirkwood, who walked four and struck out three in improving his record to 6-10.

Yankees 4, Red Sox 2
A two-run triple by Chris Chambliss and a two-run homer by Oscar Gamble enabled New York to break Luis Tiant's seven-game personal winning streak and beat Boston.

Yankee starter Dock Ellis, 15-6, was the winner with relief help from Dick Tidrow. Tidrow pitched the final two innings, earning his eighth save as the Yankees reduced to 16 their "magic number" for winning the American League East title.

Orioles 5, Tigers 3
Wayne Garland snapped a three-game losing streak with a six-hitter as Baltimore scored two unearned runs in the seventh inning to defeat Detroit and hand Mark "The Bird" Fidrych his third straight loss.

Garland raised his record to 16-6 while Fidrych, 6-6 since the All-Star break, fell to 15-8 while giving up 11 Baltimore hits.

Brewers 17, Indians 4

George Scott crashed a three-run homer in a six-run Milwaukee first inning and the Brewers added five more in the fourth, two on a double by rookie Jim Gantner, for a 20-hit rout of Cleveland.

Jerry Beare, making his first major league start, was the winner with a 12-hit, complete game performance. Jackie Brown, 8-11, took the loss.

Twins 1, Rangers 0

Pete Redfern and Bill Campbell combined on a nine-hitter as Minnesota whipped Texas and Gaylord Perry, 12-13, pitched his third consecutive game without a run from his teammates. He gave up eight hits.

The Twins, with Campbell collecting his 17th save of the season, got their run in the third inning on Steve Brye's double, a sacrifice and a fielder's choice.

Jug Preview highlights Thursday races

Impressive field set at Scioto

COLUMBUS — World champion Warm Breeze heads up an extremely impressive 10-horse field in the $30,000 Little Brown Jug Preview Thursday night at Scioto Downs.

Owned by Lloyd and Nancy Arnold of Chicago this brilliant son of Bret Hanover, trained and driven by Dick Farrington, drew the rail in the seventh edition of The Jug Preview, scheduled just two weeks before the coveted Little Brown Jug itself at Delaware, on Sept. 23.

Warm Breeze, who shares the world record for three-year-old pacing colts over a mile track with a mark of 1:54.4, will face a field of nine sizzling sidewheelers including Dick Oldfield's Dream Maker who defeated Warm Breeze in the second heat of the Geer's Stake at Du Quoin, Ill., last Saturday in a dazzling 1:56.3.

Gutty Joe O'Brien, still competing with a hair-line fracture of the pelvic bone, has one of his trio of Jug eligibles in Pensive Bret, the steady son of Bret Hanover owned by Thurman Downing of Cleveland. This brawny bay son of Bret Hanover took a two-year-old mark of 2:00.1, won at Scioto earlier this year in 1:59.1, won the Matron Stake at Detroit in 1:58.2, and was second to Warm Breeze at Indianapolis in 1:55.1. Dream Maker, the bay son of Race Time, owned, trained, and driven by Dick Oldfield of Adrian, Mich. had a record of 2:00.2, taken at Scioto Downs on July 31 before his sparkling come from behind victory in 1:56.3 at Du Quoin, Illinois last Saturday.

Wilford Cameron, making one of his infrequent appearances at Scioto Downs has the highly touted Bret Hanover Cambret, consistently among the leading three-year-old pacing colts this year, and Will Plowman has the season champion three-year-old pacing gelding over a half-mile track, Baron The Brut with a mark of 1:59.4.

John Duford brings the quick Canadian colt, Able Baron, currently leading the point list in the Ohio Sires Stakes Series. Owned by Doug Courtney of Ontario, Able Baron has a mark of 2:01.3 at Scioto, but his best effort to date was a second place finish to Starred by Bret at Scioto on Aug. 14 in 1:58.

Roger Brown will go with Race Time colt, Race Over, Mike Zeller will handle Don Lorenzo, Wayne Nickells has Baron Joseph, and Walt Ferguson will score from the outside number ten post with Gusto Omaha, winner of eleven out of twenty starts this year.

The $30,000 purse is a record for The Jug Preview at Scioto Downs, and the stake record is 1:58 set by Columbia George in the first Jug Preview in 1970.

The fall junior league is also in need of bowlers. It begins Sept. 18.

Mount Sterling team wins tourney

The Mount Sterling Dogs beat Mi-De Trophy in two-straight games to win the Labor Day softball tournament at Eymann Park.

The Dogs lost their first game, but went through the losers' bracket undefeated to win the tourney final by 12-9 and 2-1 decisions over Mi-De.

Mark Jordan won the home run trophy with four roundtrippers and Randy Howland, also of the Dogs, had 16 hits.

George Harrison infringes patent

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Beatle George Harrison was not aware of it, but he infringed on a copyright when he wrote the melody for "My Sweet Lord" in 1970, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Court Judge Richard Owen, a composer himself, convicted Harrison of copyright infringement Tuesday. Although Harrison did not deliberately plagiarize the melody of "He's So Fine," he did essentially use the work, the judge said.

"His subconsciousness knew that song had worked out but his conscious mind did not remember," Owen said. "This then under the law is infringement of a copyright...."

Owen scheduled a trial for Nov. 8 on the issue of damages in the lawsuit brought by the Bright Tunes Music Corporation, which owns the copyright to "He's So Fine."

Elliot Richardson receives award

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson will receive the 1976 Thomas Hart Benton Award of the Kansas City Art Institute.

The award, named for the late Kansas City artist, was established in 1974 "to be presented annually to a living American whose life and values best exemplify the ideals, concerns and human qualities of the great Thomas Hart Benton."

Richardson was named Tuesday as winner of the 1976 award. John W. Gardner, founder of Common Cause, won the award last year.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It seems far-fetched that ABC's new "Mr. T. and Tina" comedy series concerns a widowed Japanese man who moves to Chicago and hires a wacky young Nebraska lady as governess for his two kids.

But the fetch gets even farther, at least initially, when executive producer Jimmie Komack says the show evolved from what became "Chico and the Man," the NBC sitcom about an old Anglo and a young Chicano.

"It's relatively simple," insisted Komack, a fast-talking former standup comedian, as he sat down to explain it. "When I originally wanted to do 'Chico,' I came to what I considered a terrific truth."

He said he'd been chatting with some friends, one a Mexican-American and another a Japanese-American. It struck him odd that another guy at the pow-wow jokingly referred to Komack as "the American."

"Like my people are from Russia, Hungary, I'm Jewish, right? This other guy's a Chicano, got a big right to this land, and the other guy's a Nisei, has Japanese parents, but was born here," he said.

"So I say, 'That's funny, these kids were born in America and yet they aren't considered Americans by other Americans. That's really weird.' So I tried to do a show called 'We Truck.'"

He described it as a comedy about a Nisei and a Chicano who run a California trucking company.

"The big joke in the show was always going to be that nobody would accept these Americans as Americans," he said. "They'd get told, 'Talk to me in your language.' They'd say, 'This (English) is my language.' Somebody says, 'Why don't you go home?' They'd say, 'This is my home.'"

"But I couldn't sell it. They (the networks) didn't understand it, didn't know where the comedy would come from. So I eliminated the Nisei part and just went with what became 'Chico and the Man.'"

"But I still had this commitment to myself for the Nisei side."

However, that side of the idea was changed, he said, because he later felt it posed a big problem — namely, the regrets of older Americans for something their country did just after Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor.

In security's name, the United States uprooted thousands of Japanese-Americans from the West Coast and put them in internment camps under armed guard for the duration of World War II.

Komack, 50, said he thought that action left Americans of his generation "with a guilt that's incredible."

So, he added, he thought the best way to handle that — guilt doesn't get laughs, after all — was to revamp the Nisei character, make him a man from Tokyo trying to cope in modern-day Middle America.

The result became one of four Komack comedies made for TV this season. The others are "Chico," ABC's "Welcome back, Kotter" and "Snip," the new hairdresser show NBC recently postponed airing until later this season.

Parents, teachers crowd city school board meet

Parents and teachers turned out in large numbers Tuesday night at the Washington C.H. Board of Education meeting.

The parents were concerned with overcrowding of kindergarten classes while teachers were interested in what action the board might take concerning salaries.

A 35 per cent increase in kindergarten enrollment this fall over last year's figures pushed the number of students to as many as 35 per classroom. Parents were concerned over these class sizes and asked the board to hire an additional kindergarten teacher.

Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor stated that he felt one half-time teacher would be sufficient to remedy the situation, and board members agreed.

Mrs. Susan Stuckey, of Greenfield, was employed on a half-time basis. This reduces the number of students per classroom to 29.

TEACHERS WHO feel that there is a need for salary increases received no immediate satisfaction. The board tabled discussions on possible salary hikes, but Nestor and board member Jerry Sheppard are to meet with City Teachers Association representatives before the next board meeting.

Although the city school system pays beginning teachers only $100 more than the required state minimum, little can be done to improve salaries unless the 2.5-mill school operating levy passes in November.

A NUMBER of items filled the remainder of the meeting.

The board accepted the resignation of school psychologist David Johnson and hired R. Joseph Mayhew on a 10-month contract.

Also employed were two substitute teachers, a secretary and several part-time lunchroom employees.

The board adopted a Title IX grievance procedure as suggested in the federal guidelines, and accepted one student residing in the Miami Trace School District on a tuition basis.

Tuition was waived for American Field Service exchange student Jean Winiger of Sweden.

Bus insurance will again be obtained from Bob Lewis. Rates jumped from $1,049 per year to $1,417.

Reimbursement to teachers for professional meeting expenses and continuing education courses was approved.

IN OTHER items, the board:

—Approved the sale of a used dishwasher and a used gas oven;

—Endorsed the participation of 18 band students in a special concert at

Otterbien College the afternoon of Sept. 16;

—Approved several fund transfers and appropriated monies from the DPPF fund;

—Will seek quotes for investment of funds which will not be spent during the first quarter of the school year;

—Named Sheppard (with Robert Highfield as alternate) to represent the city board at the annual Ohio School Board Association meeting Oct. 1.

—Noted that in addition to 2,315 students in grades kindergarten through 12th grade, 150 students are enrolled at Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus, bringing the total enrollment in the district to 2,465; and —Approved several requests from school classes and organizations for use of buses.

Police officers probe four traffic mishaps

A Washington C.H. man was charged with a traffic violation after an accident Tuesday. Three parking mishaps occurring the same day were also investigated by Washington C.H. police officers.

A 7:40 a.m. Tuesday two-car collision resulted when a car driven by Gregory A. Dixon, 18, of 236 Chestnut St., reportedly pulled from a stop sign on Hickory Street without yielding to a car proceeding north on Main Street.

The second car was driven by Stephen C. Deere, 20, of 1233½ S. Main St. Dixon's car was moderately damaged in the accident, and he was charged with failing to yield to an oncoming vehicle.

TUESDAY, 2:15 p.m. — In the process of parking along E. Court Street, a car driven by Ursula J. Williams, 34, of 616 Belle Aire Place, reportedly struck a parked car belonging to Joseph H. Rodgers, Ohio 207. The accident occurred just west of Fayette Street, and both cars were slightly damaged.

2:12 p.m. — As Frank D. McCoppin, 56, of Greenfield, was pulling from a parking space in the Frisch's restaurant parking lot, Clinton Avenue, his car collided with another car which was also leaving a parking space.

The second car was driven by William E. Cupp, 39, of 2652 Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, and both cars were slightly damaged.

9:13 a.m. — A van driven by Vickie J. Groves, 17, of 822 E. Paint St., was backing from a parking space on Temple Street, when it reportedly struck a car driven by Harold E. Orihood, 54, of Clarksburg, which was eastbound on Temple Street.

The accident occurred just east of Lewis Street, and Ms. Groves was charged by police officers with backing without safety. The extent of damage was not indicated in the police report.

Drug abuse, petty theft suspect fined, sentenced During Tuesday's non-traffic session of Washington C.H. Municipal Court, a Cincinnati man was found guilty of four drug abuse violations and a petty theft charge.

Kerry G. Jones, 24, of Cincinnati, was fined $50 by Judge John P. Case for each drug violation charge. The charges were possession of less than 100 grams of marijuana, hashish, a "schedule five" drug, and a "schedule three" drug. The latter two legally coded charges dealt with the possession of illegally obtained prescription medications. For those two charges, Jones also received five-day jail terms on each count.

For a petty theft conviction, Jones was fined $100 and sentenced to five days in jail.

Minnie Richards, 54, of 302 W. Court St., was fined $50 for a disorderly conduct charge.

For passing a bad $15.04 check at K-Mart department store, Columbus Avenue, on July 3, Emogene Cunningham, 43, of Bloomingburg, was fined $25 and ordered to make restitution for the check.

Charles T. Thomas, 26, of Peebles, was fined $25 for passing a bad $17.56 check at the K-Mart store on May 2. He was also ordered to make restitution of the amount of the check.

Convicted of criminal mischief was Ernest L. Perry, 20, of 904 Davis Court, who was fined $25 and ordered to make restitution to two Washington C.H. businesses whose signs he had taken letters from.

A charge of assault against Michael A. Litchfield, 21, of Waverly, was dismissed at the request of the prosecuting witness.

There were clear skies over Ohio today in a carbon copy of the past few days, but slightly warmer temperatures were on tap for the state.

Abundant sunshine and southerly breezes were expected to push the mercury into the 80s today. Some clouds were to begin moving into the western counties tonight and some showers will form later tonight in those areas.

These showers will push into the eastern counties Thursday.

A cold front will move into northwestern Ohio Thursday morning and move through the state during the day.

Heavy cloudiness and precipitation will keep afternoon readings in the 70s with high humidities.

Winds behind the front will bring improving weather into the state on Friday with cooler temperatures and lower humidities.

Extended outlook for Ohio, Friday through Sunday: fair Friday through Sunday with highs in the 70s and lows in the upper 40s and 50s.

In bad check case

Guilty verdict returned

At the close of day-long trial Tuesday in Fayette County Common Pleas Court, and a jury deliberation of approximately one hour, a Lyndon man was found guilty of complicity in passing a bad check.

Hugh Gunter, 18, of Lyndon, was convicted of being an accomplice to passing a bad $220 check at the Glass Used Car dealership, 2782 U.S. 22-NW, on June 9.

Arnold R. Huntsman, 23, of Lyndon, currently serving a prison term of from six months to five years in the Mansfield State Reformatory, was convicted earlier of having passed the bad check.

Judge Evelyn W. Coffman delayed sentencing of Gunter, pending a pre-sentencing investigation.

Gunter was represented by Michael J. Lander, a Washington C.H. attorney, while assistant Fayette County prosecuting attorney John H. Roszman represented the state.

Liquor permit sought

A liquor permit is being sought by Karen Sockman, doing business as the R&K Grocery in Madison Township.

Ms. Sockman, whose address is listed with the Ohio Department of Liquor Control as Rt. 5, Washington C.H., is seeking a permit to sell beer and wine for carryout.
